

WORCESTERSHIRE HISTORIC ENVIRONMENT AND ARCHAEOLOGY SERVICE

Do you want to discover more about finds archaeology?

The Historic Environment and Archaeology Service processes finds from sites that range in date from prehistoric to modern. The Service also identifies finds brought in by members of the public, and works in close co-operation with members of local archaeological societies, who collect finds through activities such as field walking.

WHEAS finds volunteers at work

As a volunteer, you can make a valuable contribution to the work of the Historic Environment and Archaeology Service, while extending your archaeological knowledge and skills. Finds processing affords an excellent opportunity to work with our team of experienced archaeologists. Training is provided, so even if you are completely new to archaeology you will soon learn about many types of finds, including pottery, building materials, glass, metal and stone.

You may work with us for as much or as little time as you wish, though for the time being we can only supervise volunteers during our normal working hours (8.30-17.00).

Recent finds from a Roman site
- processed by our volunteers

Last summer, volunteers also took part in excavations at the Butts in Worcester, ahead of the construction of the new Library and History Centre. We are now processing thousands of artefacts recovered from this important Roman site. If you would like to work on these and many other interesting finds please contact Dennis Williams on 01905 855495, or email dwilliams2@worcestershire.gov.uk
